Boston American to Receive Contributions to Build
Stand at Devens

Here's a chance to knock out a patriotic home run.

The Boston American today appeals for subscriptions to a fund to be known as the Boston AMERICAN Camp Devens Baseball
Fund.

The object of this fund is to provide a properly equipped baseball and athletic field for the boys at Camp Devens.

The Government has donated land for such a field. But there is no appropriation available to erect spectator stands for the games. The fund now inaugurated is to provide these necessary stands and other equipment the field, so that our soldiers-in-training may see their own country to best advantage.

The fund has the approval of Major General Harry P. Hodges, commander of the 76th Division, who writes to the AMERICAN that he will do all in his power to cooperate in the matter.

MAKES GOOD SPORTSMEN.

He adds in his letter:
Such stands will be a long step in the direction of encouraging baseball enthusiasm in this connection.

STOCK MARKET ASLEEP

RECESSIONS RECORDED

By International News Service.

New York, April 2.—The most gloomy feature of the stock market at the opening today was the small volume of business.

There was no sale of Marine preferred in the first fifteen minutes and only a few of the minor steel industrials were traded in during that period. General Motors, Industrial Alcohol and Utah Copper were among other stocks in which there were no sales.

Continued recessions were noted in Sinclair Oil and Bluebell. Jellied to 1 1/2. Miami sustained a further loss, selling down to 25 as against 31
at the close yesterday.

American Car & Foundry dropped one point to 7 1/4, on a few sales. Industrial Alcohol dropped 1 1/2 to 12 1/2 and Distillers' Securities fell from 20 1/2 to 18 1/2. U. S. Steel was extremely quiet, ranging from 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 through the first hour.

Government bonds were steady;
railway and other bonds were steady.

FILM COMPANY MUST PAY NAT GOODWIN $15,200

New York, April 2.—Nat C. Goodwin, comedian, obtained a verdict of $15,200
yesterday in the Supreme Court.
Goodwin sued for $13,600 and interest for alleged breach of contract. The defendant was the Mirror Film executive, in whose photo film plays Goodwin starred. He was charged with having the expiration of the contract period.

He was always late in coming to the studio, and because he was "hangover" in spite of the vinegar bath he was to recuperate.

BULGARIAN TROOPS NOT ON THE WEST FRONT

Washington, April 2.—Bulgarian troops are not fighting on the Western front, General General Murphy today cabled the State Department from the

and that the only Bulgarians who now occupied anywhere against the allies are on the Macedonian front.

Military Rule in Canadian City
After Several Are Killed
in Draft Riots

By International News Service.

Quebec, April 2.—Quebec was under control of a military government today, following a night of rioting in fog-clouded streets in which four were killed and a number injured in a new outbreak of the disorders which have accompanied enforcement of conscription.

Much of the night's disorders took the form of sniping from doorways, and the soldiers had great difficulty in picking out the offenders. When the shots failed to silence the rioting, the rioters, machine guns were fired down streets where the sniping was most persistent.

Major-General Leonard, sent here with the powers of a military governor, but has not proclaimed martial law, sought today to reach some agreement with the protesting element. Importation of soldiers to cope with the situation, has become a big element in the situation, arousing further opposition to the government's operations.

SUSPECT GERMAN INFLUENCE

In an effort at getting to the root of the disorders, an attempt is being made today to find the leading forces behind the demonstrations. Reports that J. W. W. elements are responsible and that German money plays a part in the disorders are being spread. Officials believed that it had been definitely established that many outsiders, including men from Montreal, have led many of the bands of rioters.

In the face of the warning that radical measures would be adopted to break the rioting, crowds collected early in the morning, resulting in the posting of soldiers at many points and drawing of a line of bayonets across the streets leading to the upper town.

Then bricks began to fly and there were several reverses for the police.
The military force was sent into the streets in an attempt to disperse them.

Several soldiers were killed, with minor wounds in the first serious clash near the Canadian Pacific station. The soldiers sent volleys over the heads of the crowd, attempting to break the rioting. It was estimated that some particular disorder held a sniper.

ARMED LAWLESS MEETING

Armed Lawless, Nationalist leader, has made an issue of use of outside troops, including many in units who have been sent here in the last twenty-four hours, but he was prevented from holding a mass meeting of protest last night by proclamation of the military government.

At the request of Premier Borden, Major Lawless has forwarded an explanation and defense against charges that Lawless meting. "Lawless Quebec police were partly responsible for the night's disorders," Lawless said in the rioting to date was estimated at more than $100,000.

GERMANS DRIVE BACK NEXT HUN OFFENSIVE MAY BE IN THE DIRECTION OF ARAS

There was a terrific struggle for Grivesnes, which lies just north of Montdidier.

Supported by light artillery, the German columns made a number of fruitless assaults against the defenses of the village. Every time they were hurled back leaving many dead.

To the north of Grivesnes, between Moreuil and Hangard en Santere, the Germans claim to have captured Arrasch wood, but no mention of fighting in that region has been reported by the British War Office.

Arasch wood is less than ten miles from Amiens and lies north of the Amiens-Montdidier road.

Hard Battle for Grivesnes

In spite of bad weather the aviators and artillery have continued extremely active on both sides. Mist and rain made observation impossible, but the gunners have maintained ceaseless activity, throwing shells against registered targets.

Rain has turned the roads and fields to deep mud, which has hindered the Germans in bringing up their artillery.

There has been slight change in the general battle line during the past twenty-four hours, the advantage all being with the allies. The German troops' concentrations and the trend of their activities indicate that another phase of the battle is imminent and that a tremendous effort will be made to converge on Amiens from the northeast and southeast.

Americans in the Fight

In this event American soldiers probably will play an important part in this stage of the struggle, as there is every indication that Americans are now ready to take their place on the firing line. Large American forces will be sent to the aid of the Anglo-French armies in France, it was said officially last night.

Arrangements for the transportation of these forces are now being completed, the official announcement stated.

The number of German prisoners and captured machine guns in the hands of the British and French is increasing daily. This shows a steady ascendancy in the initiative of the allies and forecasts complete failure for the great German offensive.

As the situation stands on this thirteenth day of the drive the Germans have advanced between thirty-five and forty miles, capturing a number of wrecked towns and villages, but they have fallen far short of their objective. The original German plan was to drive a wedge between the British and French armies, taking Amiens and turning the flank of both opposing armies. Hindenburg is as far from success in this program as he was before the campaign opened.

Wait for Hun Exhaustion

Heavy losses and the necessity of withdrawing shattered divisions have compelled the Germans voluntarily to slacken their pressure. The British and French have been sparing in the use of their reserves, yielding ground rather than throwing fresh troops into the battle.

The strategy of this evidently is to wait until the Germans have reached the maximum of their exhaustion, then hurl a huge fresh army against them. The chance for success then would be much greater than if the allies had used up the major portion of their reserve forces in an effort to check the Teutonic advance.

Military critics are beginning to see more and more ground for hope that this will prove the Waterloo for Germany.

Propaganda Aimed at America Invites Animosity Over Taking of Ships

By International News Service.

Washington, April 2.—Holland is being thoroughly aroused through the misrepresentation of events leading up to the seizure of her ships by the United States. This was the message brought to Washington today by a Dutch representative, Mr. H. J. van der Meer, who has spent practically all his time in British captivity since the outbreak of the war.

Mr. van der Meer reached an Atlantic port Friday night and was taken to a hotel in Washington today in time to confer with a number of high officials, including Secretary of State Lansing.

"Do not," he said, "underestimate the feeling aroused by our actions among the Dutch common people. Public opinion in Holland is being fed by German propaganda and every effort is being made by the enemy to inflame the Dutch population against America."

The United States, he said, is not Germany saw at last months ago to inspire American interference in Dutch papers, and particularly in German publications which have large circulation in Holland.

Picardy's Battle Line Now in Form of Human Face

By International News Service.

The battle line in Picardy is now in the form of a human face, according to a report received by the War Department.

The line extends from the northwest to the southeast, making the top of the head.

From Boucy to Albert it extends nearly due south, forming the forehead. Then there is an upward curve here, presenting the lower angle of the forehead. Thence the line extends southward with a sharp angle at Maricourt, having the shape of a human nose. The lips are formed by two small salients at Maricourt.

The line angle extends southward to Grivesnes, making the chin. The bottom of the face is represented by the line which runs through Montdidier toward the southeast.

U. S. ENGAGED IN BATTLE

By GUY CARPENTER.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 2.—General Pershing has organized the first army corps of the expeditionary force, according to advice received by the War Department.

The first corps is now acting in concert with the French army, and is the left flank of the German offensive.

An American corps consists of two divisions. For military reasons it is impossible to give the exact strength of the first corps. A division consists of approximately 15,000 men, it is an exact that General Pershing has assigned more than two divisions to the corps.

MAJOR IN TWO COLUMNS. The corps is under the command of a major general, who formerly commanded one of the divisions of which the corps is made up. It is understood that the American forces are being sent into action in two columns.

Although under the direction of General Pershing, orders to the corps will be sent through the command of the French army, who is in close touch with the general headquarters established by the French government.

The divisions making up the First Army Corps are known here, but the War Department has yet to identify them. There is reason to believe that the divisions of the corps are the famous Rainbow Division, made up of National Guardsmen from every State in the Union.

This division was among the first to arrive in France and has initiated its training course here. The division, though some experts have held that National Guardsmen would not be so well fitted for the fighting as regular troops, has shown great ability in the training course here.

It is stated on good authority that the men of the division are being trained themselves so well in the training course here that they were included in the First Corps.

DIFFER ON POSITIONS. The exact part which the American forces will play in the French offensive is not known. Army officers here believe that the French line held by the French in order to follow the latter for service on the fighting front. It is believed that they will be moved to the French counter-offensive plan.

MRS. FOLSON IS AGAIN ASYLUM FUGITIVE

Woman W. to Killed Somerville Man Sought by Hospital Officials

Mrs. W. F. Folson of Somerville, who shot and killed her husband, Henry H. Folson, chairman of the Somerville school board, at Easton, N. H., four years ago, has escaped for the second time from the State Hospital at Concord, N. H.

She is a large, powerful woman, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds. There is a decided growth of hair on her upper lip which may help in identifying her. Three years ago Mrs. Folson was released from the asylum and was given a day's leave. She returned to her own home, but was arrested by the police.

Mrs. Folson was instantly seized by the police. She was taken to the State Hospital at Concord, N. H., where she was committed to the asylum.

Mr. Folson was lonely. He had no wife. He was anxious to have his wife back with him. He was warned by the nurse who had been charged with Mrs. Folson's care that she would be a danger to herself and others.

Mr. Folson secured her release. He took her to his summer place at Newfield, N. H., where she lived for some time. She was then taken to the police station and was committed to the asylum.

Boston to Get Victory Bread Made from Banana Flour

Boston is soon to have bread made from banana flour. Already New York registered a suit of approximately a 15 per cent. substitute loaf, which contains a large proportion of banana flour.

In their search for the Victory loaf that will look and taste like our white wheat loaf of good bread, the bakers throughout the country are trying many unusual combinations.

"Boston bakers are still in the experimental stage of war bread making," declared one of the big bakers.

PUBLIC CONTROL PLAN GROWS RAPIDLY

Business Men Urge Employees to Sign Petition for Improvement of Elevated

Increasing evidence of the popularity and the growing strength of the public control plan for better service on the Boston Elevated Railway accumulates each day.

Not only are increasing thousands signing the petition, but the plan is being taken to the Legislature urging speedy action on the passage of the bill embodying the recommendations of the Public Service Commission for public control of the road, but in many other ways individuals, firms and associations are doing all they can to further the plan.

Tradesmen and managers are inviting their employees to sign in order to get the car service in which they are entitled. People who have circulated petitions in factories and stores have done so with the hearty approval of their superintendents and foremen.

There are scores of opportunities who are always on the spot when the moment arrives to bring home to them of people the worthlessness of the present service and the need for a change in control that will mean both immediately better service and permanently better service.

SHEEHAN ON THE JOB
One such is Francis N. Sheehan of No. 415 Quincy street, Dorchester. Passengers in over two scores of cars stalled at various times within the last week have found Mr. Sheehan on the job with a handful of AMERICAN petitions.

These were quickly circulated through the cars and the passengers were only too glad to sign something with favor to the plan for public control.

A Methodist citizen in a letter to the AMERICAN declares that the citizens of that section have not yet signed the petition for public control. He says that the people are not able to endure the poor service for so long without having taken some more drastic action to express the general dissatisfaction.

If they once realized this thousands of names of good citizens would be added without delay to the petition, this man writes.

Times representatives were sent to the House by us to serve all the people of their district, and the voters should get together in signing these petitions in order to get the desired service by placing the control of the road in the hands of the people," he says.

GUARANTEE OF SERVICE.
"I most heartily favor the plan for public control of the Boston Elevated Railway, as I think any man who has had any recent experience in riding on its trains and cars," says Mr. Gallagher.

"The plan deals fairly with stockholders and should be a guarantee of good service to the public."

"It is not at all surprising to me that so many thousands of people should sign the Boston AMERICAN petition for better service on the Elevated. That the people are not able to endure the poor service for so long without having taken some more drastic action to express the general dissatisfaction."

HOLD the razor naturally and easily, and tilt the handle so you can feel the blade engage the beard. (Here's where some men make a mistake they tilt the handle up or down too much, and make a scraper of a Gillette instead of a razor.)

Keep the edge of the blade as nearly flat against the skin as you possibly can. Then shave with short, slanting strokes.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, most soaps and shampoos are too harsh and too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is an ordinary mild soap or one which is pure and gentle and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. The absence of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out, is a sign of every particle of dirt, dust, dandruff, and grease. It cleanses the hair quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair soft, and silky, bright, lustre, and easy to manage.

You can get this mild soap at any pharmacy. It is very cheap, and a few pennies will supply every member of the family for months.

DANIELS' POLYTOPE TO BOY COAL

Fuel Administration Also Regulates Employers Who Purchase for Workmen

Measures to regulate distribution of anthracite coal by employers who are accustomed to purchase coal in large lots to resell to their employees do not have taken for the Massachusetts Fuel Administration. The new regulation is also calculated to prevent individuals from pooling their interests and purchasing coal in large lots.

Under the ruling of James J. Storrow, all employers desiring to distribute coal to their employees must first secure permission from the Fuel Administration. The distribution will be governed in all respects by the regulations which apply to all retail dealers. The regulations in effect license the employers who desire to sell coal to their help to the same way that retail dealers are licensed.

A letter sent out to the heads of all coal fuel companies by Mr. Storrow declares that "direct shipments of coal to consumers will tend to defeat the purpose of the regulations which have been established by the Fuel Administration to secure the broadest and most equitable distribution of coal possible during the coming year."

BEATRICE OF THE ORDER.

Mr. Storrow's letter is, in part, as follows:

"Coal or large load lots shall not be delivered to a single domestic consumer, except with the permission of the State Fuel Administration."

This paragraph is intended to deal with two classes of consumers: 1. Single domestic consumers, or group of domestic consumers who order coal for themselves, through the agency of a jobber or coal dealer. 2. Employers who order coal for their employees.

The Fuel Administration feels that the regulation should be the supervision of local fuel companies, which have been established by the Fuel Administration to secure the broadest and most equitable distribution of coal possible during the coming year. This means it does not seem advisable to give permission for coal load shipments direct to consumers except under exceptional circumstances.

"If application is made to you for permission to purchase direct a coal load or large load of coal, you should not believe the contrary which is suggested by the Fuel Committee to be forwarded by the Fuel Committee to its office."

"If application is approved, you will be notified and asked to see that the distribution is carried out according to the regulations established by the Fuel Administration."

"It will be the policy of the Administration to give permission to direct from the mines for distribution to the public, whenever the purpose of the regulations which have been established by the Fuel Administration to secure the broadest and most equitable distribution of coal possible during the coming year is not thereby defeated."

"If application is made to you for permission to purchase direct a coal load or large load of coal, you should not believe the contrary which is suggested by the Fuel Committee to be forwarded by the Fuel Committee to its office."

HON. HEINIE RUNS SO RAPIDLY HE GETS HURT

San Antonio, Tex., April 2.—Heinie Zimmerman narrowly escaped turning his ankle in the fourth inning of the game between the Glens and Kelly Flyers. He limped out a long two-base hit, but in turning first caught his ankle and went down on his leg. Luckily, Heinie did not hurt his member.

—being really patriotic doesn't mean being pennurious, but buying really—getting the most for your money

Real thrift is not show itself in buying no nothing, or wearing clothes that have "see-it-day," or yet again in buying inferiorities.

Buy fewer things, if you must—but make sure you do buy the utmost for your money. To give you clear standards for doing clothing wisely, the House of Marshall publish a series of notable advertisements, illustrated with diagrams. The first appear in this paper on Thursday, April 4. Watch for it!

"JOHN L. AS I KNEW HIM"

BY JAMES J. CORBETT. JOHN L. SULLIVAN

This is the thirty-seventh chapter of a series which James J. Corbett is writing on "John L. as I knew him." It relates many heretofore unpublished incidents in the life of the great warrior. The next installment will appear tomorrow.

The furious rushing of John L. through the early rounds of our fight had burned up much of his energy. That was obvious to all the men in the crowd. The fight was over. But just the same, I was still fresh and strong and could afford to play the waiting game for a few more rounds.

ROUND TWELVE.

Corbett said to Sullivan's manager, "I don't want to fight any more. I want to go home."

ROUND THIRTEEN.

Sullivan landed an open-handed blow on Corbett's shoulder. There was a long pause of surprise.

ROUND FOURTEEN.
